The Ever Lasting Present or The Dual Realism

Author's thoughts on a Saturday afternoon!

The reality dividies itself into smaller "pieces" of reality. The shadow and the light are two separate worlds but together they form the third world (the one that we live...)

The space is a fiction; time does not elapse at all; just we want it to.

The time is motionless but we are woried because we fell its effects; My paintings try to show the immobility of the moment or the shortness of a long while...

Do you like Luis Borges?

That is what I am trying to express by image.
